6 Keys to Basic Spa Care

Get in the habit of practicing these basic spa care rules. Preventing problems before they occur will give you more enjoyment from your sparkling clear spa — not to mention the perfect environment for relaxing with family and friends. There are 6 essential keys to spa care:

1 Circulation. Proper water circulation will help ensure even distribution of products and promote better filtration. As the water circulates, it passes through the filter, collecting the suspended particles. Be sure to run your spa's circulation system every day to ensure good working order.

2 Filtration. Many spa issues are caused by poor filtration—when the filter is dirty or clogged, debris stays suspended in the water. Properly cared for filter captures hair, oils and cosmetics. Because spa filters trap many contaminants, cleaning has two steps: spraying off loose debris, then using Filter Cleaner to remove oils and other contaminants embedded into the filter. You need to clean your filter every 4 to 6 weeks.

3 Cleaning. Contaminants such as dirt, oil and even bacteria can accumulate at the waterline. Regular cleaning preserves spa surfaces and prevents unwanted build-up. Off The Wall® Surface Cleaner and SpaGuard Cleaning Mitts are powerful, low-foaming cleaners that work specifically with spa water chemistry. Use them to remove the ring of oil and dirt that serves as a breeding ground for bacteria and also, to prevent residue from building up around the waterline and inside the skimmers.

4 Draining and Refilling. Regular draining and refilling is a normal part of spa maintenance. Over time, the water absorbs and dissolves minerals, chemicals and other soluble material. Pool Works can perform a Total Dissolved Solids (TDS) test to help determine when it's time to replace the water. High TDS can make the water appear dull, foam, and develop an odor. How often you drain and refill your spa depends on how often you use it.

5 Chemistry. There are two primary components that affect spa water quality: sanitizer level and pH. When both are within their recommended ranges, your water is comfortable, protected and clear; sanitizers and “shock products” work efficiently; and spa surfaces and equipment are protected.

6 Testing. The chemistry of your spa water needs to be checked regularly. Use SpaGuard products to maintain the correct levels, including: sanitizer levels, pH, total alkalinity, calcium hardness, metals, and total dissolved solids. AquaChek 4-way Test Strips or Soft Soak® 4-way Test Strips test pH, total alkalinity, and sanitizer levels with only one strip. Also, test your water monthly at Pool Works for a precise, free, analysis customized to your spa! Using our computerized system, Alex, we can provide accurate recommendations specific to your spa at no charge for our customers.

Ozonators

Chlorine & Bromine sanitizers fulfill the function of killing bacteria, viruses and algae. However, Chlorine and Bromine are not the best oxidizers. Incomplete oxidation accounts for up to 90% of their usage and 100% of their problems. An Ozonator produces the strongest oxidizer available (ozone). The ozonator does the oxidation work normally attempted by Chlorine and Bromine. Combined Chlorine or Bromine compounds and the problems associated with them are eliminated.
